

WAITING TO BE HANGED

WAITING TO BE HANGED.
SIX MOLLIE MAGUIRES TO BE HUNG
THIS WEEK IN POTTSVILLE, PA.
Numerous Applications from Doctors and Journalists to be Allowed to Witness the Executions—The Culprits Resigned to Their Fate

[By Telegraph to the National Republican.]
POTTSVILLE, Pa., June 17.—Much excitement prevailed here yesterday and last night with regard to the probable action of the board of pardons at Harrisburg in the cases of the six convicted Mollie Maguires who are to be executed here on Thursday next. Much curiosity is manifested by the public as to how the men will be hanged, whether separately or all at once. The sheriff has provided a g allows large enough to hang seven. Over eighty-five applications have already been received from correspondents and journalists to be allowed to witness the execution, and the medical profession seem to take an unusual interest in the event, as over a hundred doctors from abroad have applied for admission on that day.

in town, it was deemed prudent to increase the police force around the prison, and the force will be further increased, if necessity may demand. It is rumored that several companies of militia from Philadelphia and the surrounding country will be brought here under arms and reviewed by Gen. Gobin on Thursday. The priests visit the condemned men every morning and the Sisters of Mercy in the afternoon.

noon. The prisoners have given up all hope since yesterday, and now seem resigned to their fate. Young Roarty is in the best spirits, laughing and talking freely over his past life, while Duffy, whose case was strongly and persistently argued before the board of pardons yesterday, is quite despondent.

THE MOLLIES DOOMED.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 17.—The board of pardons, after a session lasting from 9 o'clock Saturday evening until 12:30 Sunday morning, refused to commute the death sentences to imprisonment in the cases of the convicts Mollie Maguire, who are to be hung on Thursday.

IT'S ALL EXPLAINED.

The True Inwardness of Gen. Garfield's L

Visit Here Out at Last.
Gen. Comly, of the Ohio State Journal, who has been here for several days, writes to paper and tells exactly what brought Gen. Garfield here last week. He says:
Gen. Garfield is here, and the Row is about over it. They don't know whether he has come here on public or private business. One says he has had a quarrel with the President, and don't wear headquarters any more. Another says he is out at the Congress, and that the House, as the result will shortly appear, is in an entire case of the Presidential attitude toward the Senate. Another says Garfield has just finished a labor-railroad case of immense importance, in which delivered an argument of three weeks in length. He was so prostrated physically that he is unable anybody, and seeks only to rest. It makes who happens to know the real facts in case smile to himself to hear the gossamer of his happenings. He knows that Field met Stagg, Matthews, and Medill here for the purpose of discussing anti baptism. It is well known, I trust, that Carl Gustafson was formerly a Campbellite minister. He was a man of words, and was always ready to dig up his words, and that infinitely no right to be baptized at all. Now every ness to Mr. Medill, that any man with such notions about the mode of baptism as Medill has is little better than a damned phonographist. I should like to give all the points of interesting discussion, but the conversation rather private, and I don't like to commit a breach of confidence.

[illegible]

The Queen's Invitation to General and Grant.

[By Telegram to the National Republican.]

NEW YORK, June 17.—The Herald's London cable says the Grand Junction announces that Queen has invited General and Mrs. Greville to visit. The Edinburgh Standard says General Greville on his return from the continent will spend six days at the residence of the Lord Provost, of Glasgow.

Three Lives Lost by the Burning of a Steamer.

[By Telegram to the National Republican.]

NEW ORLEANS, June 17.—The steamer Lizae, hence for Pensacola, burned to the water this morning, seven miles from Raglan. Three lives were reported lost—two negroes and a white man. The fire was caused by wood being thrown into the boiler. The cargo of four hundred barrels of sugar, and five hundred and five packages of sundries is a total loss.

Verdict in the case of the Sicilian plague.

[By Cable to Three National Republicans.]

LONDON, June 17.—An official inquiry into London concerning the epidemic on board the St. Mark has been held.

Killed by the Fall of a Scaffold.
[By Telegraph to the National Republican.]
New York, June 17.—A scaffold in a part of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western road, near the city of Scranton, Pa., collapsed, precipitating seven workmen a distance of forty feet. Two were fatally and the rest seriously injured.

Reduction in the Price of Compositions.
[By Telegraph to the National Republican.]
PHILADELPHIA, June 17.—The Typographical Union reassembled this morning, and agreed to reduce the price of compositions to the daily newspaper work, on work week they fixed the price at thirty-five and thirty-seven cents.

Gov. Hampton En Route for Albany.
[By Telegraph to the National Republican.]
COLUMBIA, S. C., June 17.—Gov. Hampton left Columbia this morning for Albany, N. Y., to attend the annual meeting of the Southern States Agricultural Society.

Death of Hon. George T. Davis.
By Telegram to the National Republican.
PORTLAND, ME, June 17.—Hon. George T. Davis, of Maine, died at his residence in Portland from cholera, after an illness of about a week, on June 16, 1883, died to-day.

Ex-Gov. Packard in Cincinnati.
By Telegram to the National Republican.
CINCINNATI, OHIO, June 17.—Hon. S. M. Packard arrived in this city this morning.

Death of an Ex-Senator.
By Telegram to the National Republican.
LOUISIANA, IND., June 17.—Ex-U. S. States Senator, J. C. Pratt, died at his residence here, of cholera, after an illness of about a week, on June 16, 1883, died to-day.

Death of John S. Abbott, the Historian.
By Telegram to the National Republican.
NEW HAVEN, CT., June 17.—Rev. John S. Abbott, the historian, died at Fairwinds, Conn., on June 16, 1883, at the age of seventy-one years.